THE GIANTS' CAUSEWAY IN BALLYCASTLE was one of many stops for eight local youngsters in their recent week-long visit to Northern Ireland. In addition to the usual visits to castles, folk museums, sporting events and other attractions, the young ambassadors were officially received by the lord mayor of Belfast; they met with Gerry Adams, president of Sinn Féin; and, accompanied by former Maine Sen. George Mitchell (now the independent chairman of the Northern Ireland peace talks), they planted a tree in the Peace Garden at St. Malachy's Primary School. The local youngsters stayed with host families in Belfast and were chaperoned by Steve Wight of Newry and Mary Newcomb of Bethel. Shown here, along with some members of their host families, are (from left): Arthur Saunders, Shauna McKiernan, Katie Wight, Peter McKiernan, Christine Stitt, Marc Saunders, Steven McFall, Emmett Donovan, Chelsea Marshall, Michelle Deegan (front), Billy Murphy, Deborah McFall, Cassie Mason, Sasha Fritz, Sheila Strong, Kerry Downey, Mary Harland, Lauren Hart.

Dock dispute drags on

By ALISON ALOISIO

Dr. Lennie Shaw says he will respond with legal action of his own if Greenwood code enforcement officer Norm Putnam takes legal steps against him for his dock installation on South Pond.

Shaw's request to put a total of nine, 4 x 12-foot sections of dock in the water to accommodate his family's seven boats was upheld June 5 by the Greenwood Appeals Board. But now, Putnam will not issue a dock permit for some of the sections, and is further directing Shaw to remove other sections already in the water.

In February, Putnam denied Shaw's dock application, citing town ordinance language that said docks "shall be no larger in dimension than necessary to carry on the activity and be consistent with existing conditions, use and character of the area."

He said that nearby docks did not exceed 200 square feet in area, and Shaw's, at 432 square feet, would be significantly larger.

But in the June 5 appeal hearing, some board members noted there were four other docks on the pond greater than 200 square feet (208, 215, 235, and 696 square feet). They also said Shaw's dockage request was necessary to carry on the activity associated with his boats.

The dockage was to be limited to extend no more than 31 feet off the shore. Board members also visited Shaw's dock sites before making their decision.

The June 5 meeting was a reconsideration of an earlier, April 8, meeting in which the board also ruled in Shaw's favor. Putnam did not attend the April meeting. He was notified afterward in writing of the vote, and directed -- without an explanation of the board's reasoning -- to issue the permit.

That prompted Putnam to request the reconsideration meeting, which must be held within 30 days. Putnam's request was made May 6 -- two days before the deadline. Putnam said he received notification of the results of the April meeting "late" in that period, but he did not have an exact date. The memo to Putnam was dated April 10.

He eventually agreed to a June 5 meeting, which he did attend. After that vote, Putnam was again directed to issue the permit. The notification outlined the board's reasons, and stated his denial of Shaw's permit was "clearly contrary" to the provisions of the ordinance.

But last week Putnam notified

Airport Authority faces tangle of decisions

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Airport Authority is looking to the town selectmen for direction in dealing with a number of looming decisions about the long-term management of the Bethel Airport and Airport Industrial Park.

Authority members are scheduled to meet with the selectmen Monday. Topping their list of topics are the financial status of the authority, what to do with the former GAMM building, and how to handle ground space leases (primarily for hangars).

In a meeting Tuesday morning, the board members concurred that progress in recent months has stalled, and that this state of affairs is beginning to have consequences for other people interested in seeing the airport develop.

Landmark Newry farm is gone, leaving behind many memories

By ALISON ALOISIO

Letting go of a farm that has been in the family for generations is never easy. It was no exception for some members of the Bean family of Newry. They recently sold their Sunday River Road property, which will become the site of a new restaurant this fall.

The farmhouse was burned last week by area fire departments, leaving behind memories and a few mementos -- and in the case of at least one family member, a determination to make the best of changing times.

The circa 1800 cape-style farmhouse and its 17 acres came into the Bean family in the 1920s.

It was also home in the early 1800s to Luke Reilly, after whom Riley Plantation is named.

Randy Bennett of the Bethel Historical Society said he considered the house to be one of the historically most significant in the Sunday River Valley, after the Foster homestead. The Bean house was, he said, the oldest home standing in the Sunday River Valley.

Mary Bean Tripp was one of a family of seven girls and one boy who grew up in the house. The family raised "everything" on the land, she said. "My dad (Robert) had cattle and sold milk. We raised carrots, corn, beans -- my father had green thumbs. He raised more in a big garden than some people did on eight or 10 acres."

The family also kept hens and pigs. For preserving food, "my father always went down to the river to cut ice. He'd put it in a bay in the barn and fill it with sawdust."

Tripp was able to drive the Bean's two teams of horses, and helped with haying by moving bales.

There was also nature's wild bounty to draw on. "I've picked more wild strawberries," Tripp said, "and we picked blueberries on Barker Mountain."

Her mother also had a standing order from the Bethel Inn for raspberries. "When we had raspberries, they wanted them all," said Tripp.

Tripp may also be numbered among the early skiers in the Sunday River Valley. "My sister Kate and I asked for skis one Christmas. That's what we wanted, and that's what we got." They skied down over the banking in front of the house.

For Tripp, who has lived in the Bear River area of town for 50 years now, the Sunday River Valley still seems like home, and she wishes she could be there.

"It was a lovely valley," she said. And -- the traffic coming to Sunday River Ski Resort aside -- "it's still the same old valley. The swimming holes are all still there, and the covered bridge," she said.

Of her family's property, she said,

HEAVE-HO

A three-year old male moose that became trapped in a crevice at Screw Auger Falls Friday was rescued with the help of a pulley system. The animal was discovered Thursday evening, and was thought initially to be injured. Plans were made to destroy it. But Friday morning, the moose was found standing up, and warden service and other officials decided to try to save it. The 400-pound animal was tranquilized and hoisted from the crevice with a pulley and sling fashioned by Ed Bennett of Newry. Here, rescuers move the animal up and out of the crevice. The moose's head is visible at the bottom center of the photo.

School Board debates how to deal with book objections

By ALISON ALOISIO

What do you do if you don't like the books your child -- or someone else's -- is reading in school?

Last week, the SAD44 School Board discussed a proposed policy for selecting instructional books and materials, and dealing with challenges to their use. But prompted in part by worries over censorship, directors sent the proposal back to the Policy Committee for revision.

The policy addresses an individual parent's objection to his/her child using certain materials. In that case, alternative materials may be provided.

But the policy also deals with objections to materials available to students in general -- and provides a procedure for removing them from the school system.

The decision whether to remove material would rest with a committee composed of staff members and a school board and community member.

Having a framework for removing a book or other material worried some board members, including Bethel's John Brown. "That is censorship," he said. "I don't think the public school should be in that business. I hate to give book burners a tool to use."

The policy also directs that the committee be appointed by the superintendent. Some directors wanted to include the board chairman in that decision.

There were also concerns about

CROOKED RIVER THREATENED

To the Editor:

Again the Crooked River is being threatened. The threat presently is insidious, but if not checked will impact every Portland resident's drinking water.

Within the next few months the Land Use Regulations Commission will vote on final sophisticated plans that would allow a high stakes bingo facility to be built in Albany Township.

The backers of this plan, having done their research, contend they will only fill in less than an acre of wetland in the National Resource Protection Zone of the Crooked River. One minor fact they seem to overlook is that the area designed is listed in the FEMA maps as an area that is permanently flooded. An oversight I am sure.

Should we be concerned; the answer is obvious. The bottom line is that the septic system being built abuts the Crooked River, the watershed for Sebago Lake, which supplies the drinking water for Portland.

With the proposed thousands of bingo players using this septic system, a system that is only two-thirds larger than one for a single family house, the real danger is the introduction of a heightened bacterial count in the Portland drinking water.

Maine can be proud of its efforts to clean up her rivers, yet this development would reverse that effort.

Residents of Albany have been shunned in the recent media blitz paid for by backers of the Passamaquoddy Tribe. Perhaps the show of solidarity by residents is a little frightening even to big promoters.

We residents want to preserve this area from pollution both environmentally and socially.

Hopefully, our elected officials will see through this ruse and realize it for what it is, another attempt to victimize the Indians.

Ultimately, it is the Indians that will pay as they are seduced by yet another proven addiction, this time gambling.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

To the Editor:

As a local Bethel resident, who relocated in Hawaii, it's astonishing pain can be felt so far away. I'm writing to you with despair from the recent phone conversation my mother and I shared. It involved an incident involving a young boy from Albany who made a wrong decision and a father who did as well.

Since learning of this tragedy I've been contemplating where or whom does the blame belong, obviously it must be placed somewhere. Do we hold society accountable? Do we blame the ever-so-demeaning recreational drugs and alcohol that control our youth? Can we hold parents liable or should we look to them for condolence? As we all know, the track record isn't favorable for our town and surrounding areas.

We all remember the shooting death of a Northwest Bethel native. All the fatal accidents, including the recent collision in Bryant Pond where four teens lost their lives before they even began, and I could go on; however, I need not rekindle the pain. Are these problems associated with a town stricken between wealth and poverty or a result of an uneducated dictatorship. I feel it's beyond getting friends, family, neighbors, police, teachers, and clergy involved. It's obvious they are aware. Why must it continue?

READY FOR BATTLE--The Greenwood Appeals Board upheld Dr. Lennie Shaw's request to add more dockage at his South Pond cottage, but code enforcement officer Norm Putnam will not issue the permit, saying the board's decision was "null and void." The CEO is now also directing Shaw to remove unpermitted docks. Shaw said he is prepared to take legal action rather than remove them. He is shown above on one of two dock installations he currently has in the water.

Docks

Shaw by letter that he would not issue the permit, saying the board's reconsideration "did not take place for 60 days and thus is null and void."

That, he said, left the original April 8 decision, which he described as incorrect because his action was not found then to be clearly contrary to the ordinance. He then directed Shaw to remove some dockage currently in place that, he said, is in violation of previous permitting. "Failure to remove these sections will require me to proceed with legal actions to secure enforcement," Putnam wrote.

Long process

Shaw said he has been trying to get a dock permit since the fall of 1995, and has met with the Appeals Board at least four times since then regarding denials by Putnam.

"At this point I think I've gone through all the processes involved in democratic small town government, and tried to adhere closely to the requirements," Shaw said Monday. "I don't want to institute legal action, but I will respond," he said, if Putnam takes action. If that happens, said Shaw, "it is probably going to be expensive for Greenwood."

He said he now feels he is being harassed by Putnam.

Michael Daniels, secretary of the Appeals Board, acknowledged the board's April directive to the CEO did not state Putnam's action was clearly contrary to the ordinance, and that was in part the reason for reconsideration meeting took place.

Another reason, he said, was that Putnam was still raising the issue of a formula he created for determining allowable dock size and used as part of his decision in Shaw's case. And there was no reason, Daniels said, not to hold another meeting if it would allow the board to address Putnam's lingering concerns.

Daniels said, however, he believed the vote of the April meeting would have stood in any case, because "the intent of the decision was obvious, and the findings of fact and conclusion clearly imply that the CEO's decision was contrary to the provisions of the ordinance."

The finding of fact notes the nine dock sections are required to adequately accommodate the family's watercraft. The conclusion states that Shaw's application meets the requirements of the ordinance "in that the proposed docks are no longer in dimension than necessary to carry on the activity and they are consistent with the existing conditions, use and character of the area."

Asked about Putnam's reasons for refusing a second directive from the Appeals Board, Daniels said: "If I weren't embarrassed for the town of Greenwood, this would be funny -- since Putnam himself was entirely responsible for the delay."

"Look at the dates: the first meeting was held the evening of April 8, and on April 10 a memo directing Putnam to issue the permits was put in his tray at the Town Office. But it wasn't until May 6 -- 28 days after the meeting -- that he wrote to request a reconsideration (and in his letter he said he was unavailable until after May 13).

"Then, when a tentative meeting date of May 29 was set," Daniels said, "Putnam said he would be unavailable, because of a commitment in Bethel."

"Once a meeting date is agreed upon, it has to be advertised and the abutters contacted, and this takes time," Daniels said. "I think when you look at the facts, it's clear the board moved as quickly as possible to honor Putnam's request for a reconsideration."

"And it is my understanding that boards generally have the discretion to waive such time limits when the circumstances warrant and neither party objects," Daniels said.

Putnam said Monday the Greenwood Board of Selectmen reviewed his letter to Shaw last week, and there "was nothing to indicate disapproval in any way, shape or form." Chair Marie Bartlett confirmed the board voted to support the letter.

Shaw himself planned to meet with selectmen last night (Tuesday) to get more information regarding where the process might go from here.

Ordinance proposed

Putnam has proposed an amendment to the town's Shoreland Zoning Ordinance that sets square footage limits on docks according to the length of shoreline owned by the applicant.

It also takes into consideration the existing conditions of the area, including the sizes and other physical characteristics of the docks, piers, wharves, bridges and other structures.

The amendment would also restrict a dock from extending more than 30 feet into the water, and would allow 64 square feet for one separate float.

Putnam presented the amendment to selectmen last week, and they initially voted to include it on the warrant for the next special or regular Town Meeting. But Bartlett said Monday she was having second thoughts about bringing the issue to a special Town Meeting.

Special meetings, she said, -- such as the pending Town Meeting on the Gilbert Mfg. loan -- tend to draw small, nonrepresentative groups of voters.

Since the town is not likely to see any new proposals for large docks for the rest of this season, Bartlett said, she would propose that the board put Putnam's proposed ordinance off until the next regular Town Meeting.

This schedule, she said, would allow for more in-depth consideration of the proposal, and would allow the residents time to see how Dr. Shaw's situation worked itself out.

(Michael Daniels is the editor of The Bethel Citizen.)

Late update

Contacted late Tuesday afternoon, Bartlett said she and Putnam had spoken with a lawyer from the Maine Municipal Association and Putnam had told her he would issue the permit.

Airport

beginning to cause other people to do other things," like consider removing aircraft from the airport, said Tom Richardson, (Richardson, the chief financial officer for American Skiing Company, is not a member of the authority, but he has been working closely with it on a number of issues).

A large part of the problem is that the various issues facing the authority are tightly interrelated. For example, Richardson said, ASC wants to sublet space in the GAMM building and was willing to spend $25,000 on improvements there.

But the company could not go ahead without more information about issues, he said, such as the legality of a sublet arrangement with the current tenant (Eric Paul),

how the finances of a sublet would be handled, and how long the space would be available.

These issues, in turn, depended on a decision by the town on whether to continue leasing the GAMM space or selling the building outright.

And that issue, at least in the minds of the authority members present, appears to depend on how much of the sale price the authority could retain, and how much would have to be returned to the federal agency (currently known as Rural Development) which issued the grant that covered most of the cost of the purchasing the building.

Town manager Phil Tarr, who also serves as airport manager, attended Tuesday's meeting and helped the members to establish priorities for the various issues they face, and to set a timeline for resolving each.

Tarr also said he would take a more active role in the day-to-day management of the airport, and would assist the authority by researching the issues ahead.

The offer was enthusiastically embraced by the authority members present.

The next step in the process will be Monday's meeting with the selectmen.

Authority members plan to begin by addressing the five-year budget -- as requested by the selectmen -- but at this point the budget is expected to function primarily as a device "that's going to lead into all these other issues that need to be resolved," Richardson said.

wording that could be interpreted to mean the committee has the ultimate decision regarding material, with no method of appeal available.

The Policy Committee will return another proposal to the board after revisions are made.

Individual cases resolved

Telstar Middle School English teacher Karen Bean, who attended last week's meeting, said parents have objected to books from time to time, but the cases have been settled by providing alternative materials to individual students.

Asked for examples, she said Jehovah's Witnesses parents requested their child receive alternative materials to a Christmas story that was used in a class.

Another asked for alternative reading to Arthur Miller's "The Crucible" because it mentions Salem witchcraft.

In a third case, said Bean, a parent initially argued that Harry Mazer's

"Last Mission" was not appropriate for the reading shelf or the classroom.

The book has a wartime setting and the first two chapters contain profanity. Bean said she believed the substance of the book made it a valuable material, and the amount of profanity drops markedly after the first chapters.

The objecting parent eventually agreed that only his child would not read the book.

Boat Safety -- Personal Flotation Devices: Children 10 years of age or younger must wear a personal flotation device (PFD) at all times in any watercraft. Adults are encouraged to wear life jackets also.

Boat cushions are no longer legal PFDs for adults and children. You cannot use them in place of a wearable life jacket. Boats over 16 feet long must also carry a throwable PFD.

Any person operating or riding a personal watercraft (jet ski, etc.) must wear a PFD. Any person being towed on water skis, surf boards or similar devices must wear a PFD or life belt.

READY FOR BATTLE—The Greenwood Appeals Board upheld Dr. Lennie Shaw's request to add more dockage at his South Pond cottage, but code enforcement officer Norm Putnam will not issue the permit, saying the board's decision was "null and void." The CEO is now also directing Shaw to remove unpermitted docks. Shaw said he is prepared to take legal action rather than remove them. He is shown above on one of two dock installations he currently has in the water. (Photo by Alison Aloisio)

That, he said, left the original April 8 decision, which he described as incorrect because his action was not found then to be clearly contrary to the ordinance. He then directed Shaw to remove some dockage currently in place that, he said, is in violation of previous permitting. "Failure to remove these sections will require me to proceed with legal actions to secure enforcement," Putnam wrote.

Long process

Shaw said he has been trying to get a dock permit since the fall of 1995, and has met with the Appeals Board at least four times since then regarding denials by Putnam.

"At this point I think I've gone through all the processes involved in democratic small town government, and tried to adhere closely to the requirements," Shaw said Monday. "I don't want to institute legal action, but I will respond," he said, if Putnam takes action. If that happens, said Shaw, "it is probably going to be expensive for Greenwood."

He said he now feels he is being harassed by Putnam.

Michael Daniels, secretary of the Appeals Board, acknowledged the board's April directive to the CEO did not state Putnam's action was clearly contrary to the ordinance, and that was in part the reason the reconsideration meeting took place.

Another reason, he said, was that Putnam was still raising the issue of a formula he created for determining allowable dock size and used as part of his decision in Shaw's case. And there was no reason, Daniels said, not to hold another meeting if it would allow the board to address Putnam's lingering concerns.

Daniels said, however, he believed the vote of the April meeting would have stood in any case, because "the intent of the decision was obvious, and the findings of fact and conclusion clearly imply that the CEO's decision was contrary to the provisions of the ordinance."

The finding of fact notes the nine dock sections are required to adequately accommodate the family's watercraft. The conclusion states that Shaw's application meets the requirements of the ordinance "in that the proposed docks are no longer in dimension than necessary to carry on the activity and they are consistent with the existing conditions, use and character of the area."

Asked about Putnam's reasons for refusing a second directive from the Appeals Board, Daniels said: "If I weren't embarrassed for the town of Greenwood, this would be funny -- since Putnam himself was entirely responsible for the delay."

"Look at the dates: the first meeting was held the evening of April 8, and on April 10 a memo directing Putnam to issue the permits was put in his tray at the Town Office. But it wasn't until May 6 -- 28 days after the meeting -- that he wrote to request a reconsideration (and in his letter he said he was unavailable until after May 13)."

"Then, when a tentative meeting date of May 29 was set," Daniels said, "Putnam said he would be unavailable, because of a commitment in Bethel."

"Once a meeting date is agreed upon, it has to be advertised and the abutters contacted, and this takes time," Daniels said. "I think when you look at the facts, it's clear the board moved as quickly as possible to honor Putnam's request for a reconsideration."

"And it is my understanding that boards generally have the discretion to waive such time limits when the circumstances warrant and neither party objects," Daniels said.

Putnam said Monday the Greenwood Board of Selectmen reviewed his letter to Shaw last week, and there "was nothing to indicate disapproval in any way, shape or form." Chair Marie Bartlett confirmed the board voted to support the letter.

Shaw himself planned to meet with selectmen last night (Tuesday)

to get more information regarding where the process might go from here.

Ordinance proposed

Putnam has proposed an amendment to the town's Shoreland Zoning Ordinance that sets square footage limits on docks according to the length of shoreline owned by the applicant.

It also takes into consideration the existing conditions of the area, including the sizes and other physical characteristics of the docks, piers, wharves, bridges and other structures.

The amendment would also restrict a dock from extending more than 30 feet into the water, and would allow 64 square feet for one separate float.

Putnam presented the amendment to selectmen last week, and they initially voted to include it on the warrant for the next special or regular Town Meeting. But Bartlett said Monday she was having second thoughts about bringing the issue to a special Town Meeting.

Special meetings, she said, -- such as the pending Town Meeting on the Gilbert Mfg. loan -- tend to draw small, nonrepresentative groups of voters.

Since the town is not likely to see any new proposals for large docks for the rest of this season, Bartlett said, she would propose that the board put Putnam's proposed ordinance off until the next regular Town Meeting.

This schedule, she said, would allow for more in-depth consideration of the proposal, and would allow the residents time to see how Dr. Shaw's situation worked itself out.

(Michael Daniels is the editor of The Bethel Citizen.)

Late update

Contacted late Tuesday afternoon, Bartlett said she and Putnam had spoken with a lawyer from the Maine Municipal Association and Putnam had told her he would issue the permit.

beginning to cause other people to do other things," like consider removing aircraft from the airport, said Tom Richardson, (Richardson, the chief financial officer for American Skiing Company, is not a member of the authority, but he has been working closely with it on a number of issues).

A large part of the problem is that the various issues facing the authority are tightly interrelated. For example, Richardson said, ASC wants to sublet space in the GAMM building and was willing to spend $25,000 on improvements there.

But the company could not go ahead without more information about issues, he said, such as the legality of a sublet arrangement with the current tenant (Eric Paul),

how the finances of a sublet would be handled, and how long the space would be available.

These issues, in turn, depended on a decision by the town on whether to continue leasing the GAMM space or selling the building outright.

And that issue, at least in the minds of the authority members present, appears to depend on how much of the sale price the authority could retain, and how much would have to be returned to the federal agency (currently known as Rural Development) which issued the grant that covered most of the cost of the purchasing the building.

Town manager Phil Tarr, who also serves as airport manager, attended Tuesday's meeting and helped the members to establish priorities for the various issues they face, and to set a timeline for resolving each.

Tarr also said he would take a more active role in the day-to-day management of the airport, and would assist the authority by researching the issues ahead.

The offer was enthusiastically embraced by the authority members present.

The next step in the process will be Monday's meeting with the selectmen.

Authority members plan to begin by addressing the five-year budget -- as requested by the selectmen -- but at this point the budget is expected to function primarily as a device "that's going to lead into all these other issues that need to be resolved," Richardson said.

wording that could be interpreted to mean the committee has the ultimate decision regarding material, with no method of appeal available.

The Policy Committee will return another proposal to the board after revisions are made.

Individual cases resolved

Telstar Middle School English teacher Karen Bean, who attended last week's meeting, said parents have objected to books from time to time, but the cases have been settled by providing alternative materials to individual students.

Asked for examples, she said Jehovah's Witnesses parents requested their child receive alternative materials to a Christmas story that was used in a class.

Another asked for alternative reading to Arthur Miller's "The Crucible" because it mentions Salem witchcraft.

In a third case, said Bean, a parent initially argued that Harry Mazer's

"Last Mission" was not appropriate for the reading shelf or the classroom.

The book has a wartime setting and the first two chapters contain profanity. Bean said she believed the substance of the book made it a valuable material, and the amount of profanity drops markedly after the first chapters.

The objecting parent eventually agreed that only his child would not read the book.

Briefly

Bingo supporters hit campaign trail

ALBANY TOWNSHIP--Flyers extolling the benefits of a proposed high-stakes bingo hall here have been mailed to nearly 1,400 businesses in 11 surrounding communities, including Bethel. The flyers were sent by Fryeburg businessman John P. Smith, who said that for "a token fee" he is directing the information campaign for the hall. The flyers, which are also being distributed by hand, describe the plan, explain its importance to the Passamaquoddy Indian Tribe, and seek support for it.

Gilbert meeting expected

GREENWOOD--Selectmen anticipated setting a date last evening (Tuesday) for a special Town Meeting to decide whether to allow the town to serve as a conduit for a Community Development Block Grant loan to Gilbert Manufacturing Corporation. Chair Marie Bartlett said the grant would cover costs associated with holding the meeting to consider the $100,000 loan. The town would have no liability for the money.

Newry to help draw the line

NEWRY--Voters Monday approved $7,000 as the town's share of the cost to resurvey the town line with Bethel. Moderator Steve Wight cast the deciding vote, as the eight other residents in attendance split on the issue. The question of whether the line should be straight or crooked has been the subject of debate since the 1970s. A court ruled in favor of the straight line. Also the subject of debate was Bethel's decision -- without consulting Newry -- to hire a surveyor to run the line. At Monday's meeting, some wondered why Newry was being forced to pay for work it did not ask for originally. Wight said the town had lost that argument with the court ruling, and would have to go to court again to appeal it. Also at Monday's meeting, voters approved a cemetery ordinance and an update of the flood plain management ordinance.

Region 9 budget voted down

PERU--The budget for the Region 9 School of Applied Technology was effectively defeated Monday when Peru voted it down. Region 9 directors are required to vote the way their districts or towns vote, and Peru's weighted vote will assure defeat. Voters in SADs 44 and 21 had earlier approved the budget. The board is now expected to go to a district meeting-style vote for a decision. A public hearing has tentatively been set for July 23 at Telstar High School.

Jet ski pollution issue raised

LOVELL--The president of the Kezar Lakes Association thinks the issue of pollution from jet skis should be investigated in Maine, according to a report in the Maine Times. Noise and nuisance have been issues in recent debate in Maine, but pollution has been more the concern elsewhere. Jet skis and most outboards are powered by motors that release 25 percent of their fuel unburned directly into the water. It is estimated that one hour's operation of a 70-horsepower two-stroke motor emits the same amount of hydrocarbon pollution as driving an automobile 5,000 miles. The Maine Legislature this year killed two bills that would have governed use of jet skis and motors. Industry representatives have said there will be quieter, less polluting models in 1998. Meanwhile, Irish said opponents are considering a statewide referendum campaign against the craft.

In-school suspension proposed WOODSTOCK--A plan to suspend students from classes but keep them in the school -- rather than send them home -- was presented to the SAD44 School Board last week. This past school year, about 75 students were suspended from school for various offenses, according to assistant principal Carroll Higgins. "We should at least cut that in half," he said. Currently-employed staff members would monitor suspended students held at school, creating no extra cost to the district. They would continue to do school work while suspended from their regular classes. More serious offenses, such as assault or substance abuse cases, will likely still result in out-of-school suspensions, Higgins said. The School Board's Policy Committee is expected to review the plan.

Fiscal impact of sprawl examined

AUGUSTA--Sprawling development in Maine costs state government at least $30 million to $40 million per year, according to a newly published report by the Maine State Planning Office. Called The Cost of Sprawl, the report examines the fiscal impacts of sprawling development both on state government and on communities throughout Maine. Sprawl is the development of new homes and roads away from community centers. The report shows local governments spent $800 million more in inflation-adjusted dollars for schools and other services in 1990-91 than they did in 1980-81. One of the primary reasons has been the need to build redundant schools and other facilities. Further, according to the report, it costs more to provide services to families who are widely dispersed than it does to serve those who live in neighborhoods closer to town centers. Total living costs to families may also be higher when transportation and services are factored in. A copy of the report is available from the Maine State Planning Office, State House Station 38, Augusta, ME 04333.

Camp road erosion workshop offered

PARIS--Registrations are being accepted for a camp Road Maintenance and Erosion Control Workshop in Lovell on July 7. The workshop is offered by the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District to help camp owners, lake association members and others protect and improve water quality by preventing camp road sediment and phosphorus from reaching lakes and ponds. Workshop participants will visit camp roads near area lakes where practical solutions for road problems will be discussed. The agenda includes discussion of erosion factors such as topography, traffic and road design, and camp road construction including ditches, culverts, turnouts and vegetative buffers. Call (207) 743-7019 to register.

Lots of pollen -- everywhere

PORTLAND--Maine is experiencing a pollen overload. Experts say a late, cool spring followed by a sudden burst of hot, dry weather may have triggered the unexpected onslaught of the golden grains that have blanketed car windshields and sent allergy sufferers running for cover. "People are remarking how they've never seen it this bad," said Phil Boissonneault, who works for the Portland Water District and lives on Panther Pond. "It's just everywhere. You can see clouds of pollen." Jeff Tarling, the city arborist, has been getting a lot of calls from people wondering what the powdery yellow stuff is that's coating their cars. "It's definitely more noticeable this year," he said. "I was on Casco Bay the other day, and there were big drifts of pollen" in the water. "It's later this year, and it's much more intense than in other years," Boissonneault said, adding that he believes it will continue into early July.

Shawnee Peak ups uphill capacity

BRIDGTON--In what company officials are calling the largest expansion in its history, Shawnee Peak will spend more than $1 million this year to increase uphill capacity, enhance its snowmaking and add new glade skiing terrain. The lift upgrades will increase by 40 percent the volume of skiers that can be moved up the mountain. A new quad lift will triple the number of skiers per hour who can access beginner and intermediate terrain. In addition an existing double lift will be retro-fitted to a triple, and a beginners' surface lift will serve a new learning center. Shawnee Peak will also offer a new rental fleet for the upcoming season, as well as a new flexible ticketing program.

"It was good land there. I would have bought it if I could." Tripp doesn't think she'll be able to bring herself to go over to Sunday River to look at the new restaurant.

Something to remember it by Tripp's brother was also named Robert. His son, Charlie, never lived in the house, but he lives just up the road from it.

He said that looking back with 20-20 hindsight, he also wished the Beans could have planned financially ahead to assure the property always stayed in the family.

It didn't work out that way. Still, he has praise for the plans of Patrice and Roger Beaudoin, who are building the restaurant.

"They're doing a good job. It will be nice to have a nice-looking building there, rather than have the house fall into the cellar hole," he said.

Bean said the house was in poor condition structurally.

When the restaurant opens, he said, "I plan to be one of the first through the door."

Bean was appreciative that the Beaudoins are preserving several old maple trees that stand near where the house was. "They'll be something to remember it by," he said.

He has also saved a few items from the house, including his grandfather's old hand-hewn axe holder.

Parts of the farm buildings themselves will be incorporated into the new restaurant, according to Roger Beaudoin.

"The historical perspective has meant a lot to us from the beginning," said Beaudoin.

A PART OF IT WILL ALWAYS BE THERE—Timbers and cabinets from the Bean farm buildings in Newry will be incorporated into a new restaurant to be built on the site. The house was burned last week by area fire departments.

He said that early on, they looked into whether the whole farmhouse could be saved, but it did not work out. So from it and the barn the Beaudoins took post and beam timbers, barn board, and a kitchen and gun cabinet, all to be part of the restaurant. Old storm windows and doors will also be incorporated into a wall within the restaurant. Bean approves of that plan, too. "A part of it (the farm) will always be there," he said.

Agnes Gray School

by Marta Clements

School is out. We had lots of activities these past few weeks. The sixth grade tie-dyed T-shirts with their third-grade buddies. The fifth grade walked to the ball field for rocket launching. The second grade entertained their pen pals from the Fox School with an ice cream party.

The whole school went to Range Pond for the annual end-of-the-year field day. The water felt warm, as the windy day made the air feel cool. Grades K-Three events were separate from the upper grades, and all participants received recognition. Grades Four-Six competed in a variety of relay events with ribbons awarded for first, second and third place at each grade level. I will list all winners in order from first place to third place: frisbee contest, Grade Four: Scott Hill, Josh Skinner, Heath Yeaton; Grade Five: Crystal Hurst, Ben Gully, Ben Farnum; Grade Six: Danielle Farrar, Erik Poland, Kristy Bunce. Winners in the sack race were: Grade Four: Ben Latno, Robbie Isley, Danielle Stearns; Grade Five: Kevin Foster, Andrew Cummings, Ian Isley; Grade Six: Ashley Hamel, Bryan Desgroselliers, Ashlee Sessions. The last event was a three-legged race and winners were: Grade Four: Logan Sessions and Josh Skinner, Heath Yeaton and Josh Yates, Scott Hill and Robbie Isley; Grade Five: Kevin Foster and Billy Newmeyer, Lauren Day and Ben Farnum, Walker Shattenberg and Billy Pigrim; Grade Six: Ashley Hamel and Ashlee Sessions, Jessica Gironi and Beckie Abbot (chaperone), Bryan Desgroselliers and Erik Poland. A great time was had by all.

The last day of school was June 17, and we held our annual awards day celebration. The kindergarten and first grade joined us this year. They each received a certificate for completing the school year. We felt the entire year was successful for all students. However, those receiving special awards in Grades Two-Six were as follows: Mrs. Loper's Grade Two: music, Grace Makley; physical education, Lindsey Rosenberg; art, Zeke Warner; most improved, Jennifer Miller; perfect attendance, Deanna Emery; outstanding conduct (no tickets all year), Brittany Clark, Alicia Farrar, Grace Makley, Michael Mehigan, Lindsay Rawlings.

Mrs. Merrill's Grade Three: music, Jessica Kennagh, Paul Hamel; physical education, Jessica Kennagh; art, Eli Melanson; most improved, Paul Hamel, Melissa Gully; perfect attendance, Paul Hamel, Ryan Lorrain, Dennis Russell. Mr. Litchfield's Grade Four: music, Danielle Stearns, physical education, Danielle Stearns; art, Robert Isley; most improved, Danielle Stearns, Adam Herrick; perfect attendance, Logan Sessions, Robert Isley, Seth Tripp. Mr. Burke's Grade Five: music, Jamie Shead; physical education, Sam Stevens; art, Chrissy Heath; most improved, Billy Newmeyer, Chrissy Heath; perfect attendance, Sean Guy; outstanding conduct, Elliot Lyons.

Mrs. Clements' Grade Five: music, Priscilla Thurston; physical education, Andrew Cummings; art, Priscilla Thurston; most improved, Kevin Foster, Heather Herrick. Mr. Koch's Grade Six: music, Ashley Hamel; physical education, Kristy Bunce; art, Bryan Desgroselliers; most improved, David Abbott; perfect attendance, Erik Poland. Three very special certificates, the Presidential Award for academic excellence, were presented also. The gold award for the highest academic average went to Ryan Dillingham. Two silver awards for the second highest academic average went to Kristy Bunce and Bryan Desgroselliers. Congratulations.

The third-graders also made a special presentation of a carnation to each sixth-grade buddy. They were thanking them for all the help received throughout the year in reading, math, science, and on the playground. These two classes have been truly best buddies all year. In addition, Mr. Greg Grigsby, our home school counselor, annually presents a humanitarian award to the sixth-grader who shows care and concern for others, and cares for him or herself as well. This year the award went to Kristy Bunce. All sixth-graders received a certificate signifying their graduation from sixth grade, as well as a certificate and appreciation from Vickie Foster for all their help in the cafeteria this year. We wish them all well as they go to the middle school next year.

Our staff also wishes to thank all the volunteers who did so much over the course of this year. We have a long list of all the special activities that the volunteers do. Thanks again from all of us.

Andover

by Karen McKay

A reminder that the Andover Town Office will be closed on Friday, July 4.

The Ellis River Riders are hosting an Open Show on July 6 at their arena on the Airport Road in South Andover. There will be classes for English and Western riders with open classes in the morning and Gymkhana in the afternoon. The fun begins at 9 a.m., rain or shine, and there is no admittance fee for spectators. A full line of delicious home-cooked foods, 'burgers and fries are available.

The Andover Olde Home Days event is now only a month away. The theme of this year's celebration is "Communications." Now is the time to start planning your float entry in the parade. Cash prizes in the amounts of $100, $50 and $25 will be awarded. Local businesses will be asked to donate items for the huge raffle of prizes. The numbered buttons will soon be available to purchase. The committee will utilize the lower field (the Grimaldi property) for the spectacular sky divers, a new golf event and the cow chip flip contest. A shuttle bus will transport spectators around town, and the horse-drawn wagon will offer rides as well. Volunteers are needed to help with shirt and button sales, and various other activities. If you are willing to donate some free time, please contact the Meisners at 392-4311. All are invited to join the committee's next meeting on July 21.

Hoping all enjoy a safe and relaxing Fourth of July weekend.

Bethel

by Phyllis Dock

William and Joanne Feagan of Hendersonville, N.C., recently returned home after spending an enjoyable week's visit with Joanne's mother, Eva Perry.

Tommy and Suzanne Howe and children, Britney and Jason, spent several days camping at Shore Hills, Boothbay, last week. While there they visited Roy and Betty Lurvey and Reid State Park.

James Dock and Heidi Moore visited Jim's grandparents, the Norman Docks, last week. Jim recently returned home from Texas where he attended a two-week Executive Directors' Training Program. Mary and Arnold McLain of Lewiston visited Randal and Sarah Stevens last Saturday.

Yvonne Sessions recently had a severe heart attack and was hospitalized at Stephens Memorial Hospital. Bethel friends of Dawne Christie Shisler of Belfast were saddened to learn of her recent untimely death. She was the daughter of Donald and Dorothy Christie, who lived in Bethel with their family during the years that Donald served as superintendent of Bethel District 44 schools. She was an excellent student and gifted musician. On Friday afternoon, June 27, many friends of the Christie family gathered at the West Parish Congregational Church for the memorial service for Dawne.

Sympathy is extended to Nathalie Berry in the unexpected death of her brother in Alaska. On Friday, Rita Davis invited Barbara Lucas, Irene Russell, and Phyllis Dock for a drive to Rangeley to enjoy the scenery and "to count moose along the way." The drive was beautiful, with lush green trees and pine forests bordering the roads and lakes, as well as hundreds of lupine along the highway and in the fields. However, only two moose were sighted.

Nancy Dock, daughter of Norman and Phyllis Dock, has been appointed as supervisor trainer of the San Diego, Calif., Transit System. Richard Carter was transported by ambulance to Stephens Memorial Hospital on Sunday, where he underwent gall bladder surgery.

Helen Saunders of West Bethel returned home last week after having emergency gall bladder surgery on Saturday, June 21, at Stephens Memorial Hospital.

Arlene Lowell is recuperating at her home after having surgery last Thursday at Stephens Memorial Hospital. Bears have been reported in the Bethel area recently. Mike Murphy reported that a large black bear had destroyed his suet bird feeder, damaged his other bird feeders, and stared into his window at him. A resident of Intervale Road stated that a bear scattered his garbage and tore up the seats of his car. Craig Davis reported a mother bear and two small cubs crossed the road in front of him just beyond Woodland Cemetery on Route 5. A word of warning: stay away from bears; they are not "cute and cuddly."

Note: All instances of bear sightings should be reported to the game warden.

Mr. and Mrs. Drew Webster were in Conway, N.H., on Monday. Vada Glover visited Ruth Cummings on Tuesday and they went shopping, ate dinner at Shaners, played cribbage as usual, and also went for a walk.

Recent visitors at Irene Russell's were Betty Robertson of Bethel, Thomas Russell of Bryant Pond, and Barbara Burns of Hanover. Barbara Gallant visited Ruth Cummings on Thursday and brought her fresh vegetables.

Paul Bartlett of Locke Mills visited his mother, Helena Bartlett, recently.

Jean Palanza of Coastal Management was at the Bethel House on Friday visiting with the residents there.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morton and family of Green Bank, W. Va., arrived on Saturday to spend a week in the Bethel area.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Hanscom Sr. and Ruth Cummings were in Norway on Monday.

Barbara Bryant; her daughter, Susan, and husband, Jeffrey Leighton, and their three children, Kathryn, Matthew and Sarah; two young children staying with the Leighton family; Dorothy and Garey York; and Rose Sanders spent a delightful day on Sunday with the Keith Wilsons at their cottage on North Pond, Locke Mills.

Note: This is my last column as correspondent for the Bethel News. I want to thank those of you who have provided news items each week. -- Phyllis Dock --

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan

June 20 was a delightful day. It was the anniversary 55, for Leonas and Fay Holt, so Ann took them and me for a ride up into the mountains. We went through Grafton Notch and on through the towns into Dixville Notch. We visited the Balsams. There was golden beauty from the light and fresh green all over the valleys. The grass was reaching toward the sun while the vines and creeping tendrils displayed themselves along the walls. In places we followed the river which twisted and turned, sometimes almost imperceptibly, at others sharply changing direction. We would be headed straight toward a rocky mountain top for a while, only to notice a moment later that it was now way off to the right or left, or out of sight entirely. Then it would loom up unexpectedly almost behind us, only to reappear next before us, so meandering a course does the river follow.

Where the breeze hit, it bent and lifted the grasses in rhythmic waves like the waves of the ocean, a green sea breaking around the roots of the forest.

Water is such beautiful stuff, whether flowing in a river, floating in a cloud, or rolling as a sea; wherever it is, it is beautiful, due to the fact that light both penetrates it and is reflected by it.

Clouds were bits of explosives in the land of blue sky.

We continued on to Berlin where we had our dinner.

We came a different way home. It had been a delightful day.

I had a very nice surprise this week. One of my pupils from N.H., Alpo Saarinen, came to see me. It had been many, many years. I was so happy to see him and to meet his wife. We lived over again our school days together.

On Sunday, Leonas and Fay and others of the family met with David, Sally and Mary for dinner. Mary had made an anniversary cake for her grandfather and grandmother. We enjoyed the day.

Summer has arrived at last. My flowers are blooming and it is warm at last.

Songo Pond

by Alice Kimball

Sympathy is extended to all concerned over the tragedy that occurred in the Howard family last weekend.

Songo Cemetery Association held its annual business meeting last Sunday evening here. Old and new business were taken care of and the same slate of officers re-elected. We are hoping for more people to show interest in the care and upkeep of the cemetery.

Mr. Rodney Wentzell from South Carolina spent this week with his mother, Mrs. Millie Wentzell, and his sister and husband, Mary and Bob Eichel.

Mrs. Norma Salway drove me to Portland Monday for my doctor's appointment. Earlier we met Brandon and enjoyed lunch with him, as he was in the city for physical therapy. He is now able to get around without the crutches. On the way home we called on Kassi and Kaity Gatchell.

Phyllis and Bill Bancroft spent a day recently with the George Gilberts in Bethel. Callers recently of Phyllis and Bill were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gardner of Waterford, Mrs. Alta Smith and granddaughter, Danielle Allen.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Clough and Mr. and Mrs. "Bud" Clough on celebrating 50 years of living and loving together as separate families.

All things come to him who waits. Sometimes, though, it's just the leftovers from the fellow who got there first.

South Woodstock

by Andrea Wing

I want to thank everyone who reads my column. I've had many persons say they always look for it when The Citizen comes out. Thanks much.

Last week at a Little League ball game with one of the Bethel teams, Josh Appleby got two home runs. His grandparents, Pete and Laurene Appleby, were at the game and were mighty proud of him. This is Josh's last year to be able to play on a Little League team. The team Josh is on is the Woodstock-Greenwood baseball team.

Sympathy goes out the family and friends of Hugh "Warren" Abbott who passed away last week. Also, sympathy is extended to the family and friends of Howard Record, who also died this past week.

Several from this area visited the Vietnam Memorial in Dixfield Saturday and Sunday. My brother, Leon Poland Jr., was one of the names on the memorial. He died during the Vietnam conflict.

Claribel Poland and Rosalie Poland are having a sale at the Union Church this weekend.

Belated congratulations to Marcy Knightly and Natasha Poland on their graduation from high school. They were home schooled most of their latter years of school.

Also, congratulations to Amanda Hadley, who graduated from Pine Tree Academy in Freeport.

Happy birthday to all those born in July: Joe Pete Appleby, Stephanie Appleby, Sarah Jeanne Clements, Cylas Cash, Suzi Curry, Judy Green, Pat Hart, Lee Herrick, Wayne Lawrence, Bethany Lowe, Carolyn Lowe, Kalvin Mason, Rebecca Mason, Terry Merrill, Minna Morgan, Sheldon Morgan, Dylan and Derick Poland (twins), Leon Poland, Peggy Roberts, Alex Ryserson, Vince Stevens, Darcy Taylor, Larry Wilday, Richard Wing and Andrea Wing.

Those celebrating July anniversaries are: Leon and Rosalie Poland and Terry and Phil Merrill. Congratulations to each of you.

Richard Wing has a couple days off from work at MDOT in Bethel this week.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society, reports that Mike Walsh has donated an item to the museum.

Quote of the Week: "I've learned that gossip is like a balloon -- it grows bigger with every puff."

North Newry

by Gil Seeley

Call to Worship was held Sunday, June 22, at 9 a.m. at the Newry Community Church, with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Day was: "The Chosen," from Corinthians 6:18, "And I will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters saith the Lord Almighty."

Six members of the Newry Bowling Gang were at the Oxford Hills Lanes one day last week. They were: Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Eleanor Davis, Doris Parent, and Olive Anderson. Karlene was high on the singles beat; ing Betsy and Gil by two pins; they had tied on the third string. Karlene had two spares, Betsy had one spare and Gil had one strike. All went to lunch and did some shopping.

Sorry to hear that Sylvia Wight had a sick spell a while back. We wish her speedy recovery and a happy future. "Take it easy, Sylvia, and slow down!"

Too much rhubarb? How about rhubarb bread: 1/4 cup sugar, 2/3 cup oil, 1 cup light brown sugar, 2 eggs, 1 tsp. vanilla, 1 cup sour milk, 2 1/2 cups flour, 1 tsp. soda, 1 1/2 cups of rhubarb, 1/2 cup chopped nuts. Mix sugar and oil. Break and beat in eggs. Add vanilla and rhubarb. Alternate one cup of sour milk with sifted dry ingredients. Add chopped nuts last. Before baking top with 1 tbsp. of melted butter, then sprinkle with granulated sugar. Bake one hour at 350 degrees. Makes two loaves. Mmmm, good.

Recently, the Mahoosuc Montessori School of Bethel enjoyed an outing in North Newry. One of the purposes of this field trip was to return polywogs that had hatched at the school to their original home in a very small pond area adjoining the property of Miss Sylvia, where the outing took place.

After the releasing ceremony, and Miss Deb spent time almost knee deep in the water collecting other samples to take back to the school, snacks were enjoyed on a small mesa-like area from which Sunday River Whitecap can be seen. The children then were shown a rock with a tunnel-like area and all crawled through, some twice before returning to school.

Those in attendance were: Ethan Allred, Sawyer Barter, Jack Brink, Devon Brown, Will Chapman, Felicia Dumont, Abbey Gardnef, Marlana Johnson, Katie Smith, Cameron Thurston, and Marion Thurston. Anna Haberman-Fake was in Arizona at the time of the outing. Deb Dohrmann and Cindy Kane Olson were assisted in driving the students by Laurie Vogt-Barter and Hilary Hall-Allred. Colby Allred, a prospective student, also attended.

Larry also puts flowers in the building occasionally on Saturdays. He has given a cobalt blue vase, a handsome amethyst glass vase, an old-fashioned sampler and two rare pieces of Bristol glass to the society. East Stoneham

Hi readers. The last public church supper here was better than the first one (of the season, that is). The church Thrift & Bake sales were about the same. This Saturday there is a special on books. Perhaps that is why this news is a bit late getting off, as I've had my nose in a book and couldn't seem to put it down for long. There are many more books and good authors. My favorite, I guess, is Danielle Steele. A couple of weeks ago at a yard sale I got "Thunder Over South Parish." When I was a lot younger we lived across the street from Dr. and Mrs. Littlefield.

It's Flea Market time at the North

Lovell Library -- rain or shine July 4, 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. or longer. Please stop by and check us out (the sales articles -- not us).

John Woodbury has been recognized by the Telstar Educators Association for his retirement from 32 years of teaching. Good luck to you, John, in your retirement. We wish you well.

Have you ever seen so much yellow pollen around? I never have. I could hardly see the color of my car, and the kitchen window over the sink was just covered. That window squeegee cleaner that my sister gave me worked real good on that. I could even reach the window from the ground.

A group of us have been attending a program of health education classes at NCMH this past week. It's good to learn more about illness, disease, and injuries and how to treat them. It's been very interesting and informational.

Don't forget the church public supper at East Stoneham on Thursday, July 3, and the Bake & Thrift Sale on the 5th. We are getting more things in each week.

The D.U.V. Maine Dept. Convention was held in Waterville on June 26 and 27. I did not attend this year but will get information for next writing.

Church services will be held in East Stoneham for the month of July beginning July 6.

Crystal and Nicky Dunn visited their aunt and uncle and cousins in New Hampshire last weekend.

Shirley Grant from Mechanic Falls spent the past weekend with Frances Grant. Doris and John Files from Rumford called on her one day last week.

Kenneth and Bea Smith have sold their home here in East Stoneham and have moved to Locke Mills where they are building a new home. Welcome to Stoneham, Joyce White, and sorry to lose you, Ken and Bea, but good luck in your new venture.

West Bethel

by Karen Jordan

After a long, humid day the rain was a welcome break. People react so differently to rain. One fellow I saw was so happy it rained because it would be too wet to mow his lawn. I was happy for my garden but worried that the blossoms on my irises would be spoiled. From work in Bethel I called my dad to see if they were having a downpour. He had just arrived home from Bethel where he reported the storm was heavy and continued all the way to West Bethel. Just as he passed my house it was dry and sunny. All was well until I arrived home and remembered my clothes on the line. When the rain soaks the wash there is a sweet smell better than anything made by man.

The flowers in my front garden have been exceptionally beautiful this season. When life gets you down, pick up a hoe and dig. It's almost guaranteed to relieve your frustrations and worries. My garden is right on the road's edge. My neighbor, Fran, stopped by recently to admire my work and took a few plants home with her. Some have wondered why the road salt doesn't kill the flowers but it doesn't seem to bother them. I had seen lilies growing very near the road in numerous places and decided to try them. Soon my garden grew to have peony, daisy, artemesia, bleeding heart, bee balm, iris, and ground phlox. Whenever I am in my garden I feel contented and close to the women in my family. It is a tradition in the Swan family to grow gardens. My mother recently walked me around her gardens to point out the irises that were special to her. She made a point to say which colors I should take and where they originated from. It is expected that I pass these on to my daughters for their gardens.

There is a special bond between women and their gardens. My sister and I share plants regularly. I was recently describing an Egyptian onion plant and she took me to her garden to dig a bit so I could have it. My male, Rosemary from Mason, just brought me lamb's ear and pink lily of the valley. My neighbor, Gerry, keeps me supplied with seeds she harvests from her flowers after the flowers have faded. Last year, sister Audrey gave me a perennial pea bush which had originated with my grandmother Eva Swan. As a little girl I used to hide behind a hedge of this very bush on grandma's front lawn. It is growing like a weed in my garden now.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the society will hold its annual picnic on Thursday, July 3, on the lawn of Founder's House at the end of Broad Street, beginning at 6 p.m.

Anyone attending should plan to bring a picnic lunch. Lemonade or punch will be served by the society. There will be a brief business meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m. followed by an oral history session on Bethel and NTL. This year, 1997, marks the 50th anniversary of NTL's founding in Bethel, and this meeting will honor the organization's long association with the town. Anyone interested in attending the meeting is cordially invited to come and learn about NTL's history. Those with special memories about Bethel and NTL through the years are especially urged to come and participate in the panel discussion.

The fifth annual Fourth of July community picnic will be held on the grounds of the Dr. Moses Mason House, beginning around noon. Once again the Portland Brass Quintet will present a concert. Contributions are still needed to support the appearance of the Quintet, which is made possible each year by the generous support of a number of individuals and organizations. Donations have been received this week from Dana and Barbara Douglass, Burt and Jane DeFrees, Kenneth and Gwyneth Bohr, Norman and Joan Putnam, Bill and Ki Clough, Mike and Barbara Brown. Much appreciation is expressed to all of the above for their generosity. More donations are needed. Anyone wishing to make a tax-deductible contribution is urged to send it to the society at P.O. Box 12, Bethel, ME 04217-0012. In case of inclement weather, the picnic and concert will be held indoors at the historic 1816 Middle Intervale Meeting House on Intervale Road.

The annual Mason Family Gathering was held on Sunday, June 29, at the Dr. Moses Mason House. A special feature during this year's family gathering was the celebration of society charter member Elizabeth Mason Carter's 90th birthday.

ARTS COUNCIL MEETING

On Wednesday, July 9, the Mahoosuc Arts Council will hold its annual meeting at the Muriel Park Mason House on Church Street. There will be a social gathering at 4:30 p.m. followed by the annual meeting at 5 p.m.

The council would like to invite all interested members of the community to attend. This is an opportunity to meet with the Board of Directors and other council members and to share information and ideas.

The Mahoosuc Arts Programming Committee is in the process of scheduling the 1997-98 season, and they would appreciate receiving suggestions at this meeting, or by calling the Mahoosuc Arts office at 824-3575.

AHHS kicks off fund drive

Members of the Bethel Area Annual Fund Committee recently met to kick off the 1997 Annual Fund Campaign for Androscoggin Home Health Services. Chaired by Jan Stowell, the committee includes: Barbara Douglass, Gwyneth Bohr, Natalie Timberlake and Barbara Brown of Bethel; Barbara Ferguson of Hanover; and Cathy Newell of Locke Mills.

This year's annual fund goal is $100,000, of which $8,000 is the Bethel area's targeted goal. Last year 110 residents of the Bethel area generously donated nearly $7,000.

A nonprofit corporation, Androscoggin Home Health Services is the largest agency in Northern New England providing a full range of home health care including skilled nursing, personal care, specialty services and hospice care.

The mission of AHHS is to help people remain safely in their homes and communities by providing affordable, high-quality health services which promote independence and improve quality of life. Although most of the services provided are covered by insurance, in those instances in which coverage is inadequate, patient fees are based on ability to pay. AHHS applies donated funds to the best of their ability to ensure that no one will be denied services solely because of an inability to pay. In 1996, more than $11,000 in free care was provided to patients in the greater Bethel area.

OXFORD COUNTY G.O.P.

LURC chairman and Newry selectman Steve Wight will be the featured speaker at the Oxford County Republican Party meeting to be held Tuesday, July 8, at the Sunday River Inn & Cross Country Center on Sunday River Road in Newry. A social hour will begin at 5:30 p.m., followed by a Bar-B-Q cookout dinner at 6:30 p.m.

The cookout will be provided jointly by the Bethel and Newry town committees. Please bring a salad or dessert to share. A business meeting will follow.

All Oxford County Republicans are welcome and cordially invited to attend. For further information, call Art Marshall (824-5140) or Carl Hansen (824-4095).

ONLY MEMORIES NOW—Planks from the former observation platform on the Old Speck tower — many bearing the carved initials of decades of hikers — have now been burned, and their place taken by a new platform on a rebuilt tower. The final touches on the project were completed Thursday, and the end result (based on a design by Newry engineer Jim Sysko) is meeting with rave reviews. "It's damned impressive," said former game warden Eric Wight of Bethel, who hiked up Sunday to check out the new tower. "If anything it's over-engineered," Wight said. "There's not a wind out there that's going to budge it." Wight knows about the winds on Old Speck — he was the last of the fire lookouts, working there the summer after his graduation from Gould Academy in 1959. And the old tower, Wight said, definitely did dance to the wind's tune. "It was pretty scary 'til you got used to it," he said. Wight's father, Dan, also served on the old tower, for seven years. Eric Wight said he has been told there is a picture of that tower somewhere on the internet. (As of presstime Tuesday, The Citizen had not been able to locate the URL for the tower photo. We'll keep working on it and try to have it for next week.)

In Memory of Jonathan P. Blanchard September 24, 1929 - July 6, 1996

We thought of you with love today but this is nothing new
We thought about you yesterday and the days before that too.
We think of you in silence
we often speak your name.
All we have now are memories and your picture in a frame.
Your memory is our keepsake with which we'll never part.
God has you in his keeping we have you in our hearts.
A million times we cried,
If love alone could have saved you you never would have died.
In life we loved you dearly.
In death we love you still.
In our hearts you hold a place
no one can ever fill.
It broke our hearts to lose you but you didn't go alone.
For a part of us went with you the day God took you home.

In loving remembrance from your wife- Jean children- Bethany & Mike Grandchildren- Jeremy, Amanda & Dan
